Gentlemen of Ireland.

PHILADRIPHIA, Sept. 21.—Ireland's visiting cricket team to-day began its match against the team of Philadelphia Coits, which comprises sixteen players, at Manheim, the ground of the Germantown C. C. Winning the toss, R. Lee, who captained the team in place of George Newhal, sent higheam in to bat, and although several good scores were recorded they could run up a grand total of but 171. The visitors had scored 33 for the loss of three wickets when play ceased for the day.

M. Hitchen, who with H. A. Furness was first to bat, was soon stumped by Browning FAIRMONT CLUB OFFICIALS HINT AT CONSPIRACY. Declare That Opposition to Ketchel-Langford Bout May Have Originated

The Fairmont Athletic Club officials are now convinced that opposition to the Ketchel-Langford bout, called off last week, was the result of a conspiracy in which several rival club promoters and persons said to be identified with a Frisco first to bat, was soon stumped by Browning for 4. F. H. Tripp and Furness then made a good stand, the former being caught by a good stand, the former being caught by Napper for 26. Tripp continued to play steadily, being partnered by G. F. Bottomby, who was clean bowled by Harrington. W. F. Kurtz and Lee could not reach the double figure column before being sent back to the pavilion and at the luncheon interval the score stood at 102 for the loss of 5 wlokets. Soon after play began again Tripp was caught by Andrews. R. Wood then quickly ran up 27, and another long stand was made when W. M. Fellows and A. Hunter, Jr., got together. After the fall of the tweifth wicket it took but a few minutes to dispose of the remaining barsmen. G. A. Morrow was most successful with the ball for the visitors, capturing 5 wickets for 27 runs, while W. Harrington took 4 for 50 runs. fight manager played important parts. The Fairmont people have been looking into this matter ever since the authorities clashed with them over the big bout, and yesterday one of the club's directors said to THE SUN man:

It was all due to the work of persons who for various reasons did not want to see the bout come off. A committee of three, strictly on the level, called Gov. Hughes's attention to the alleged fact that Ketchel able to learn this committee was influable to learn this committee was innu-enced by some clever underground work on the part of at least one jealous fight promoter who is a close friend of Willus Britt. We do not charge Britt, mind you, with trying to have the bout stopped to save Ketchel from a possible beating at the hands of Langford, for that would be hard to prove. But at the same time we disappointed much when we decided to disappointed much when we decided to call the bout off. There's another man who perhaps can tell more about Britt's actual feelings than we can. His name is Billy Roche and he refereed the Ketchel-land of the Ketchel-land of the Ketchel-land of the Ketchel-Johnson mill, and he has been in town for the last month. We do not charge Roche with having a hand in this conspiracy to injure our club, but we do believe that he can tell a whole lot of things about the matter if he is so disposed.

us suspicious: When Ketchel failed to stop Papke but got the decision Referee Roche, Coffroth's man, was accused by Papke and other Frisco boxing experts of rank unfairness. It was said that if he had decided the bout a draw or had declared Papke the winner the Ketchel-Johnson fight would have fallen flat. Roche brought pictures of the mili here to show that he was justifled in his decision, but Papke has declared them to be phony. We have it on pretty good authority that Coffroth, anxious to ncrease interest in the Ketchel-Johnson mill, opposed an actual combat between Ketchel and Langford, but advised Britt to bring Ketchel here for a bluff. This may not have been true, but the fact remains that it was only after a lot of queer tactics that Britt decided to come East.

"Langford's willingness to meet Ketchel at catch weights before our club was conclusive proof that the Boston man wanted to box under any conditions named, so that Ketchel had to either show up here, ostensiketchel had to either show up here, ostensibly to train for the bout, or crawl. But at the same time we have been told that Coffroth tried his level best to prevent Ketchel from leaving San Francisco, fearing, it is said, that if he was forced to meet Langford he might be defeated. A week before the bout was scheduled to come off made an underground complaint to a committee of reputable citizens, who had called the Governor's attention to the contest When the affair was called off Britt and Ketchel were ready to hop on a train for the coast and also refused to Philadelphia, whith such speed that the collegians were outplayed, only winning one game in the deciding set.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES. M. D. Shutt Drives Peniss Maid to Victory in Hoster-Columbus Stake.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 21.—Rock Rapids Ia., was brought to the notice of 10,000 race goers this afternoon as the home of M. D. Shutt, who drove his own Peniss Maid to victory in the $10,000 Hoster-Columbu trotting stake, an event on which Margin from Indianapolis was presumed to have a mortgage. The race was settled in the second mile. Margin put herself out of in Frisco and Have Something to Say the first heat by a break at the first and though she trotted the middle half in a minute could not catch Jack McKerron.

Penisa Maid measured speed with Margin in 1:02. The next quarter was faster, being

She was a strong favorite, backed down to a to 5, with James E. Gaffney's Louise S., well played at the last moment to beat her. Livonia gave a pound to Louise S. and when the barrier went up they rushed to the front. Mr. Gaffney's filly having a better break. It was a close fit in the rush to the head of the stretch, where for a moment it looked as if Louise S. would win. But just then Dugan let Livonia down and she drew away to win by a length and a half in 197 3-5. Louise S. had a similar margin over Starport, 7 to 1, for the place.

Thomas Welsh saddled two winners in The Squire and Lord Baltimore. The Squire, 11 to 5 second choice, won the handicap at a mile and a furlong. At the start Tony Bonero, 8 to 1, rushed to the front to set a hot pace. Dugan stuck close with The Squire and when Bonero blew up as usual at the end of the far turn The Squire breezed to the front. But he was very tired near the end and got home in a drive with a scant length to spare in 155. S. C. Bildreth's Woodcraft, 18 to 5, might have wen with a more energetic ride. Butwell kept him so far out of the race until he reached the head of the stretch that Woodcraft's run came just a trifle too late. As it was a he ran second and would have beaten The Squire in a few more strides. Pins and Needles, 10 to 1, ran an improved race and was third, three parts of a length back. Rio Grande, 2 to 1 favorite, was a false alarm. He had no speed at any stage

RACING AT MINEOLA.

Perfect weather conditions and a record breaking crowd made the Queene-Nassau county fair which opened at Mineola yesterday an assured success. On the racing programme were three events, a 2:25 pacing race for the side wheel enthusiasts, a 2:30 trotting class and a running race which brought out the old Keane favorite Grimaldi and seemed to please everybody.

The field was small in the pacing event, for with five entries there were only three starters. The race was well contested, however, and the time was fast. Baron Directly, a black stallion owned by J. E. Weir, won in straight heats, but the real race was between Grace Kelly and Strong Heart, who had it out hammer and topes for Heart, who had it out hammer and tongs for

But for all his experimenting Sullivan was handing nothing to New York. He selected big Jim Scott, one of the hardest propositions the Highlanders have enintered this season, as the Hitless Won-s' pitcher. Wildness in the early part of the encounter killed whatever chance Frank Isbell's Wichita protégé had of further subduing the locals. New York's two gift runs in the second decided the issue, even if three were added later. Warhop was too good to suffer such advantage to alip from his grasp.

Charlie Hemphill didn't get a hit, but substantiated his claim to the lop of the batting order by getting on thrice in four appearances. Gardner played his usual heady game and made a double in the eighth that was converted into New York's final run.

Scott worked out of a tight place without damage after passing the first two batsmen in the opening inning. He foolishly repeated the generosity in the second, but Purtell's fumble on Hemphill spoiled the layout this time. Sweeney's sacrifice had advanced the pair of base runners before warhop struck out, and both Knight and Austin raced home on the error. A pass to Hemphill in the fifth started trouble again.

Aside from the opening and closing periods the White Sox looked very docile. Dave Altizer might have scored with any sort of luck in any one of the first, fourth or sixth innings. He tripled to 'the scoreboard with one out in the first, but was headed at the plate in trying for a home run on Kright's fine relay from Engle. In the fourth he got on to open the inning by being hit on the end of the bat, which he made Connolly believe was his head or elbow or something else. Cole's sacrifice advanced him to second, where he was caught asleep on Warhop's quick throw to Knight. Barrows followed with a single to Knight. Altizer was again hit after one had been retired in the sixth. He perished stealing. Cole then walked and Barrows followed with his second hit, a long single to right.

Bremen. Mr. Brush left New York on July 24 and went immediately to Carlsbad when he reached the other side. He entered on a diet system, eating five meals a day, and gained weight and strength under the cure. He left the Austrian resort only a few days before his steamer was due to leave Bremen on September 14.

Last Thursday while the weather was rough and stormy he fell while walking on deck and broke his right arm just below the shoulder. The arm was set by the ship's surgeon, but it was thought best to have an X-ray examination made of the arm as soon as Mr. Brush came to New York. In case any resetting is necessary it will be possible to accomplish this rather easily, Mr. Brush understands. At Tojedo Milwauker, 8; Toledo, 1.

—Coaches Ready for Appearance of Regulars at Princeton—Forward Pass a Feature at Cornell—The Practice. CAMBRIDGE, Sept. 21.-To-day's practice of the Harvard football team saw a separation of the squad into first and second teams and the first lineup of a full first eleven. Henceforth the first team will dispense with morning practice, which has been ordered hitherto for the whole squad. The second team, under Coaches Derby, Cutting and Kennard, will continue for a short time with two sessions a day. The men retained for the first team were as follows:

The Gentlemen of Ireland's first three wickets fell quickly, Mooney falling to score before being caught by Tripp, Morrow making 8 and Andrews 2. J. G. Aston and W. P. Hone then got together and added 20 runs to the score, and were still defending their wickets when stumps were drawn for the day. The game will be resumed to-morrow. fundamentals, the coaches formed two full elevens from the first team and substi-tutes and had a half hour of signal drill. As McKay, Minot and Fisher, who are counted on for the first team, are out for a few days, substitutes had to be used in their places, but otherwise the lineup was probably the same as will be seen in the first game.

New Haven, Sept. 21.—The principal additions to the Yale football squad to-day were Ted Lilley and Fred Daley, both of whom won their Ye last fall. Lilley is the son of the late Gov. George L. Lilley. He played left tackle in the Princeton and West Point games. Daley is a Cambridge boy and before coming to Yale was captain at Andover. Both are in fine shape for the coming season.

There was somewhat of a surprise to-day when the freshmen and varsity squads were separated. This took place immediately upon the arrival of George Richardson, the coach appointed this summer by Capt. Coy. The practice to-day was quite like that of yesterday. Besides the punting, passing and falling on the ball there was a little tackling of the dummy, but the men are not yet quite hard enough for this. Walter Camp was at the field. There is a possibility that Philbin will be used for fullback until the return of Coy. In the lineup of the first team to-day were found the following men: Logan, left end: Lilley, left tackle: Cooney, left guard: Hyde, centre: Greenough, right guard: Parker, right tackle: Haines, right end: Johnson, quarterback: Holt, left half-back: Daly, right halfback: Philbin, full-back.

Phinckton, Sept. 21.—With the first regular call for Princeton football candidates coming to-morrow a haif dozen coaches appeared on the field the afternoon, including Jim McCormick, Phil King, John Poe, Harold Short, Ros Sheffield and T. E. Butkiewitz, the former Princeton and Pennsylvania tackle. There were about forty men out and they had two hours of good hard work. Of last year's regulars enly Capt. Siegling, Cunningham, Dawson, Bergen, Waller, McFadyen, were on hand but they worked as hard as anybody and for about half an hour lined up against a scrub line for charging practice.

To-day's drill included a little of nearly every kind of football, from falling on the ball to simple formations. Capt. Siegling, Woodle and Crystie did some fair kicking, and Sawyer, last year's reshman quarter miler, received a long lesson in the halfback position. He is light, but is one of the fastest men on the squad.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 21.—From the fact that so many positions on the Naval Academy team must be filled this year appecial attention is being given the squad of seventy members of the new fourth class by the coaches this season. Head Coach Berrien had as his helpers with the new men in hand along this line. ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 21.—From the fact that so many positions on the Navai state that so many positions on the Navai special attention is being given the squad of seventy members of the new fourth class by the coaches this senson. Head Coach Berrien had as his helpers with the new men this afternoon Douglass Howard, captain of the Academy team of 1995, and Johas Ingram, fullback of the eleven of the new men in hand along this line. Austin, who played halfback for the Germantown Academy last season, is punting well, and his stocky build and experience make him a dangerous candidate for a place on the team. There has been no fineup as yet, but it is likely that there will be a gradual increase until the end of the week. Richardson, fullback, and Reifsnider, end of the first team, were in the practice this afternoon.

ITEACA, N. Y., Sept. 21.—The forward pass was featured in the Cornell football practice to-day and thirty-five candidates for ends and backs had a good long drill. There were seventy-two men out this afternoon, one of the largest squads in recent football history, and in spite of the warm sunthey put a good deal of ginger into their work. Sets of backs and ends chased up and down the field at a good gait, trying out long passes under the direction of Coaches Walder, Hutchinson, Capt. Tydeman, Crosby and other veterans. Slow tackling, falling on the bail and punting were also in the schedule.

Paddy O'Connor, who played fullback on the George Junior Republic team several years ago and later on at Andover, reported for the first time. His stocky build made a favorable impression. Huriburt, one of last year's ends, and Pell, left guard last fall, came out in good condition. Krutsch, who won his 'I' on the University of Iudiana team, was out this afternoon for the first time, and White, who played with Tufts several years ago, was also working out.

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—Football prac-time, and White, who played with fufts several years ago, was also working out.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Football practice was resumed at Franklin Field this afternoon in earnest when the varsity was sent against the scrubs in the second scrimmage game of the season. The varsity had little trouble in tearing the scrub line to pieces and scored two touchdowns in the twenty-five minutes of play.

Ramsdell, Irwin and Hutchinson, started as the varsity backfield, showed up so well that they will most likely be the coaches' choice in the game against Gettysburg on Saturday, Hutchinson particularly showed well in the scrimmage. Several times he circled the scrubs' ends for long gains, and on one occasion ran thirty-five yards for a touchdown.

Miller was again at quarter and ran the team in an excellent manner. The little quarter has improved greatly in handling punts and the forward pass, and it is not likely that the coaches will move him from the pivot position this year.

EASTERN LEAGUE. JERSEY CITY, 1; BUFFALO, 0.

Jersey City profited from yesterday's lineup with Buffalo at Jersey City, breaking a long succession of defeats. The Jerseymen got in a circuit of the bases in the second inning on O'Hara's single, a sacrifice by Hannitan, O'Hara's steal of third, getting home on McAillster's passed ball. The score:

is H. Obertubbesing, and while some of the delegates favored paying him the money for his services many of the more conservative were against it. Said one of the latter class in talking of the project: "It was an unwise move and if this committee agrees to it there is bound to be trouble.

It is a nice fat sum and worth fighting for, and after one year you would have every club in the association laying plans and pulling wires to get it for one of their members. I believe the officer a clerk could be hired at $500 a year or thereabouts to do the work.

As a delegate from the Irish American A. C. Jim Hogan showed quite a lot of common sense by averting a row with the delegates present over the case in which his club persisted in keeping a point prize that the registration committee decided was not properly won. This prize was offered at the Eccentric Firsmen's games last November and the Irish team won it by the ad of points made in a dead event. This event was a shot, putting contest and was not included in the entry blank, neither was it advertised, consequently the points, which numbered nine, were disallowed by the registration committee and the Irish club was ordered to turn the prize over to the Pastime A. C., the rightful owner. The Irish refused, but Hogan asked for the correspondence in the case and said he would straighten out the tangle. McAleer May Manage Washingtons.

Washington, Sept. 21.—James McAleer, manager of the St. Louis Browns, will probably be chosen to manage the Washington baseball team next year, to succeed soseph Cantillon. There was no announcement made at the conclusion of the meet ting of the directors of the Washington team to-day, but the understanding was that McAleer would be saked to manage the team. McAleer is said to be anxious to come to Washington if satisfactory terms can be reached.

Jeffries bas arrived in Paris and Hugh Meintosh has renewed his offer of a $50,000 purse for his proposed mill with Johnson, agreeing to puil it off either in America or Australia. But when it comes down to cases McIntosh may learn to his sorrow that Promoter Coffroth of Colma has a mortgage on Johnson's services and also a big drag with the boilermaker. If Jeff and Johnson fight at all it will be under Coffroth's management, as there can be no interference with the battle in California and more than $50,000 in gate receipts seems assured.

The Highlanders have three more games to play with the Chicago White Sox, four with the Detroits, six with the St. Louis Browns and two with the Bostons. As the team is playing fast ball just now Manager Stallings thinks the Highlanders can reach the .500 mark or even surpass it before the campaign ends. Last year the Highlanders and .331 per cent. If they win half of their games this year, or a trifle less, which seems probable, they will fulfill the expectations of their hustling manager, who, in the opinion of many critics, has laid the foundation for a winning team that will be a factor in next year's pennant race. A commendable feature of the Highlanders' play is the unfagging energy they are showing right up to the end of the season. They are playing no favorites and are doing their best. When the Detroits begin an all important series here on Friday, therefore, they will find the Hillmen at their best. The Tigers will have to fight for all they get and will be subjected to a test that will prove the honesty of professional baseball.

Patrons of Gravesend are intensely interested just now in a squabble between a well known sportsman who bets on the horses for amusement, yet with much inberality, and a layer of odds who has been in the limelight on more than one occasion. It appears from the story in circulation that the sportsman, receiving a tip on The Turk last Saturday, made an oral wager of $200 straight with the layer, who quoted 50 to 1. The Turk won in a gallop and the sportsman, believing that he was $10,000 richer, went away rejoiding. But when he came to the track on Monday prepared to collect he was a heated powwow, during which hard words were passed, but as the law prohibits the recording of wagers The Turk's disconsolate backer appeared to have no redress. The matter may be compromised, however, but the sportsman says that in future when he plays a long shot he will make his oral

A decision in the cases of Strobel and Thomas, the night riders, may be handed down by Magiatrate Hylan to-morrow. It was rumored yesterday that one of the prisoners had offered to confess, but that the turf authorities would not agree. Horsemen still believe that several big operators were behind the night riders in their alleged attempt to defraud the public.

8. C. Hildreth is after all the overnight purses and stakes with a vengeance at present. His horses are very fit and are picking up all kinds of easy money. Hildreth thinks that before the snow files he will be able to supplant James R. Keene, who heads the list of winning owners in the East with nearly $110,000. Hildreth's winnings amount to almost $100,000, and he will race right up to the end of the campaign on Movember 15.
